Dear Jim

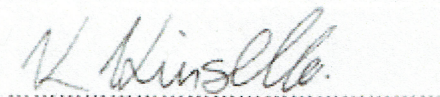

With the completion of the LSE Centre Buildings Project, I write to express the LSE's thanks for the high quality of your works on the successful outcome of the project. With the completion of the building and our occupation, I wanted to write to offer our thanks to what has turned out to be an exceptional delivery and a high-quality project that both Mace and SJ Eastern should be extremely proud of. The feedback from colleagues in the LSE is very positive and highly complimentary from all the buildings departments, staff and students.

I will shortly be arranging a Directors dinner here at the LSE for you and two members of your team, where the senior academic members of the LSE want to thank all those involved in this highly successful delivery. So I look forward to meeting up again.

We will also be entering the project into various awards and will contact you as and when these are issued so that you will also be part of any industry celebrations of any project successes.

Therefore, on behalf of the LSE, I thank you for your high-quality achievements in helping the LSE delivery what was a very complicated project.

Yours sincerely

Kenneth Kinsella
Director of Capital Development
